How To Get Started V4 Sample Project

The new sample project is hosted on GitLab at www.gitlab.com, inside the FullSample repository.

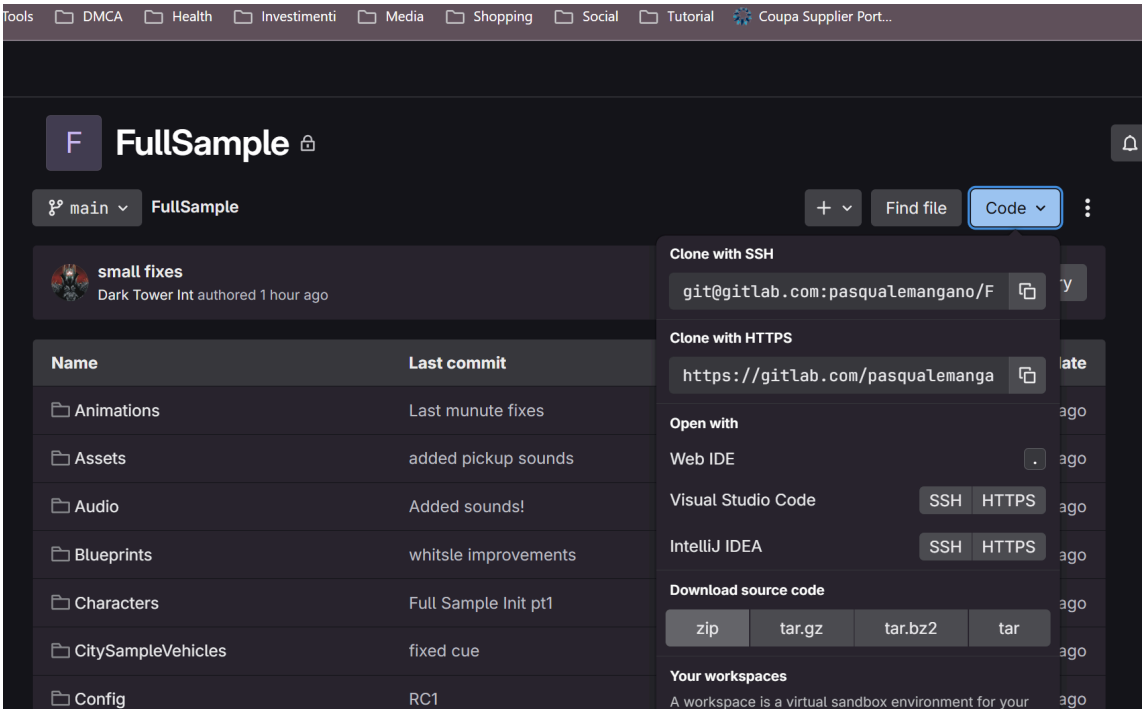
The repository is structured as a single folder named "FullSample", making it more future-proof and easier to manage. Keeping the entire sample contained within one folder ensures a clear separation between your own project assets and the sample content, simplifying maintenance and updates.

When a new version is released, you can simply replace the "FullSample" folder in your project with the updated one — or even better, just pull the latest changes from Git if you've cloned the repository.

Easy Way


- Login to www.gitlab.com and select the FullSample repository.
